The week couldn't have started on a more flavourful note. At Gaur City Mall in Greater Noida West, star power lit up the atrium as Padma Shri and India's favourite chef, Sanjeev Kapoor, walked in to a rousing welcome.

The atrium was buzzing. Foodies, home chefs and bloggers packed the space, many juggling phones and aprons, eager for that one selfie with the man who made cooking cool on television. Some waved recipe books, others simply wanted to say a quick "hello, Chef."

Chef Sanjeev Kapoor warmly welcomed by Mrs. Manju Gaur, Director, Gaurs Group

The fun began with a recipe contest that had seen over 200 entries in the run-up. Winners got to meet Kapoor on stage, grinning ear to ear as he shared tips, signed aprons and posed for photos.

Adding to the energy was a candid on-stage exchange between Mrs. Manju Gaur, Director, Gaurs Group (formerly Gaursons), and the chef. Their quick banter, the businesswoman vs. the creative chef, mixed humour with reflections on success, failures and conviction, drawing cheers from the crowd.

“Having a culinary icon like Chef Sanjeev Kapoor at our mall is an honour. Not only has he popularised Indian cuisine globally, but he has also turned Indian cooking into a fine art, inspiring everyone with his path-breaking approach to food. At Gaur City Mall, we regularly curate such celebrity-centric or theme-based events that create vibrant memories and turn the place into more than a shopping destination,” echoed Manju Gaur, summing up the vivacious atmosphere.

“One ingredient I can’t live without is my smile, and today, this beautiful mall gave me every reason to wear it. With a Wonderchef store, my restaurant, and such an enthusiastic crowd, I now understand why Gaur City Mall is spoken of so fondly,” said Celebrity Chef, Sanjeev Kapoor, displaying his usual exuberance.

Then came the quirky highlight: a Wonderchef “fashion show.” Alongside Wonderchef MD Ravi Saxena, Kapoor unveiled stylish new kitchen gadgets, including the much-anticipated Chai Magic. Because, as the chef put it, “chai is never just chai.”

From surprise gifts to autographed souvenirs, the evening had something for everyone. More than a shopping trip, it felt like a community celebration.

About Gaur City Mall

Gaur City Mall isn't just a shopping destination – it's the social pulse of Noida. With the country's largest atrium as its stage, the mall has played host to everything from high-octane film promotions to live music gigs and glittering celebrity appearances.
