CREATING THE SHECOSYSTEM OF CHANGE

WSN

The largest wealth transfer in history is underway, and women are positioned at the center of this systemic shift. By 2025, women will control over 50% of global wealth, an estimated $30 trillion-a transformative opportunity to redefine leadership, investing, and economic impact. Encubay, the Shecosystem of change, is pioneering in this movement, catalyzing conversations, actions, and opportunities for women entrepreneurs to lead the charge.

Encubay Panel at Davos 2025

At Davos, Encubay will bring together global leaders, entrepreneurs, and changemakers to address this unprecedented wealth shift through their curated dialogue:

“The Great Financial Shift: A Dialogue on Wealth, Diversity, and Leadership”

Encubay sees the 2025 wealth shift as more than a transfer of assets-its a reallocation of power, purpose, and potential. With women driving purpose-driven investments and reimagining financial strategies, this shift presents unparalleled opportunities to advance gender equity, innovation, and sustainable impact.

*“This isn’t just about wealth-it’s about creating a legacy of empowered women reshaping industries, driving diversity, and leading the global economy forward,”*said Deeksha Ahuja,

Founder of Encubay. "Women controlling over 50% of global wealth by 2025, is not just about numbers; its about redefining leadership and economic impact."

"Women are expected to receive $34 trillion by 2030 due to a massive wealth transfer, highlighting the growing financial power of women. They are championing financial independence, purpose-driven investing, and sustainable wealth creation. The 2025 wealth shift will be a historical moment where we will see a significant shift in investment trends," added Avneet Kohli, Co-founder of Encubay.

*"The percentage of female ultra-high-net-worth individuals worldwide rose to 11% in 2023 from just 6.5% in 2010.
