BriBooks, the world's leading writing and publishing platform for school students, has announced the winners of the Emerging Authors League, the second national competition under its Summer Book Writing Festival (SBWF) 2025.

BriBooks' second league under SBWF 25 honours students who demonstrated commitment and creativity

The Emerging Authors League recognises students who demonstrated sustained commitment to completing and publishing their books. Unlike contests focused solely on style or language, this league rewards the determination to shape an idea into a finished work and the courage to share it publicly.

Celebrating India's Developing Literary Talent

The league honours student authors who advanced from first drafts to published books, reflecting both perseverance and creativity. Winners were selected in two categories – Jury Choice, recognising literary quality and originality, and Best-Seller, recognising popular appeal among readers.

“This league celebrates the discipline and follow-through required to become an author,” said Ami Dror, Founder and President of BriBooks. “These students did not stop at imagining a story. They completed, polished, and published it – an achievement at any age.”
