Pilates is an exercise that helps keep both the body and mind in optimal shape. It reduces chronic pain and aids in recovery from injuries, making it an effective and restorative form of movement. It is an excellent way to stay fit, healthy, and energised for both men and women, and has also been proven beneficial for pregnant women. Pilates serves as a preventive approach to overall wellbeing, helping maintain a sound body and mind. It is especially useful for individuals with desk jobs, as it improves posture and helps relieve joint and back pain. Additionally, Pilates teaches proper breathing techniques and contributes to achieving a toned, well-balanced physique.

The newly launched YKBI centre in Cuffe Parade, with its classy and welcoming interiors, provides a myriad of promising facilities including Reformers, MOTR, Mats and Spinal Correctors with a variety of small equipment that complements these larger pieces. Students can opt for one-on-one sessions of personal classes or duet or group sessions. Coaching is led by a team of experts personally trained by Yasmin, ensuring that the health issues of clients are addressed effectively. The instructors are specifically trained to work with injuries like joint pain, back pain and neck pain and can also help their clients with fitness programmes tailored for pregnancy. All the instructors in the centre are certified by YKBI Pilates Academy and internationally recognised. In addition to regular clients, special attention will be given to those ailing from spinal issues or bodily injuries.

So come on, Juhu! With YKBI, it's time to walk that fitness talk.
